

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides the use of heterocyclic amine-type compounds to prevent or reduce neuronal damages in patients afflicted with or susceptible to disease states or conditions known to result in or cause neuronal damage.

5